

CAMPUS SENSES REVIVAL SPIRIT

October 6 at 7:30 p.m. will mark the first night of our revival at Trevecca. Everyone should be there to hear Rev. Melvin McCullough, who will be the evangelist.

After graduating with honors and receiving the Good Citizen Award from Bethany Nazarene College in 1961, he moved on to graduate from the Nazarene Theological Seminary with highest honors and was awarded with the Outstanding Student Award in 1964. He then became the founding pastor of a new home mission church in Fort Worth, Texas that is now a substantial soul-winning church with a beautiful sanctuary and educational unit. Also, while he was pastoring in Shawnee, Kansas, he saw this church more than double in membership through an aggressive program of personal and pulpit evangelism. In August of 1971 he assumed the postorate of the First Church of the Nazarene in Seattle, Washington where his congregation is experiencing tremendous growth. His book, The Inevitable Encounter, was published by the Nazarene Publishing House in 1971.

Ken Tippitt will be our song evangelist during the revival. Mt. Tippitt graduated from the Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa, Idaho and is now the minister of music at the First Church of the Nazarene in Denver, Colorado. He also directs T.V. music for Denver First Church. He has been song evangelist in many revivals with outstanding results and rewarding experiences.

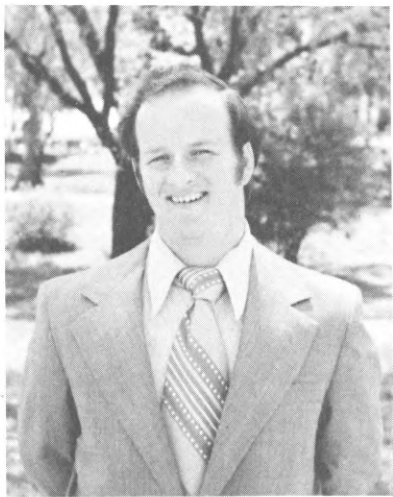

If all the Christian students at Trevecca, including faculty members, would spend at least ten minutes in sincere prayer each day, there would certainly be results. If only we become burdened for the needs of just one other person and want with all our hearts for that person to meet our Savior face to face and be willing to pray, fast, and sacrifice for that one soul, our Savior will not let us down, but will boost us by giving us a rewarding experience through this revival. If we can just bring ourselves to make a little time for this and to care a little bit and to ask God to guide and direct us, we could all bring at least one to the feet of Jesus because he is waiting. And that would be worth everything.

Rev. Melvin McCullough (above) will be preaching and Ken Tippitt (left) will be the song evangelist in the upcoming revival.

The New and Different Lawrence Golden

Four years ago, four thousand miles from home, and on the fourth day of the week, I found Jesus Christ as my personal savior. Things began to change: attitudes, habits, friends, goals in life. Well, in general, I was made "a new person in Jesus Christ". I found that life was meaningful and exciting, and I began to look forward to living instead of wishing that I didn't have to get up in the morning.

I received a call to preach and found myself at Trevecca. For me, Trevecca has been more than term papers, tests, last minute deadlines and x number of pages for outside reading. It has been a time of growth, not only mentally and physically, but spiritually. I began to understand myself and with that began to understand others better.

I don't know what this year holds, but I do know that if each of us at TNC will "lean on, trust, and be confident in the Lord with all our heart and mind, and do not rely on our own insight or understanding and in all our ways recognize and acknowledge Him, He will direct and make straight and plain our paths."

Let us allow Him to show His love through our lives, and we will have a great year.

Impact Conference Scheduled

Denominational church leaders from Nazarene Headquarters at Kansas City are coming to the campus for a daylong dialogue with students and faculty on Monday, October 30. They are coming to discuss the future of the church in contemporary society.

Trevecca's Loss Bethany's Gain

Trevecca's loss will be Bethany's gain in business manager, Mr. Ramon Richards, who has accepted the position of business manager at Bethany Nazarene College. Mr. Richards came to Trevecca in March, 1969. When he looked at his past years at Trevecca, he felt that his, as well as Trevecca's, highest point was accreditation. The most rewarding thing for Mr. Richards is the significant progress Trevecca has made in its financial position. He is thrilled at the religious commitment of Trevecca students. Mr. Richards believes that Trevecca's potential is as great as any of our Nazarene colleges if everyone will put forth their best effort. He assures us that he will be supporting Trevecca at the Nazarene tournament at Bethany!

Dr. Mark Moore is pleased that other colleges are drawing from Trevecca for their administration and faculty. It helps to show that the staff at Trevecca is well-qualified.

ALL GOD'S CHILDREN

Wow! What a fantastic opportunity to save souls. It's a first for Trevecca. It's the first Nashville — city-wide Children's Revival.

"Why bother with kids?"

"Why not? Why wait till they are deep in sin and have wandered so far from Christ that it's near impossible to reach them? Why not 'Train up a child in the way he should go...' Prov. 22:6." Experience plays a vital role in training. What better experience could a child have than to come to know Christ and live for Him?

The Children's Revival, sponsored by the Youth Ministers and Christian Education Association, is scheduled for October 26-28. There are to be Adult workshops the morning and afternoon of Saturday, October 28. The workshops are for those interested in Child Evangelism. Some of the areas covered in the workshops will be Children's Church, Nazarene Junior Fellowship, and Material and Methods.

The speaker is Rev. Bill Young from Kansas City. He is Nazarene Junior Fellowship director for the Church of the Nazarene. He is also a ventriloquist.

Maureen Box, also from Kansas City, will be here to work in the workshops.

Several weeks preceding the Revival there will be special classes taught explaining how to work with children who are seeking god. The date of these classes will be announced later.

Love?

Love is a commodity known to few, and enjoyed by even less. The word, love, which attempts to describe a beautiful concept, has often been abused by use in context irrelevant to its meaning, and to such an extent that most people no longer interpret it as they should. There have been so many unorthodox attempts to find a real, consummated love, that many people are confused, not knowing how to find it. Not even knowing what they will have after it is theirs.

Like most youth today, I began to search for love without any real knowledge of what it is and few conventions to aid my search. I thought I knew what love was all about, in fact, I even confessed a love for many people. Somehow, though, I felt that there had to be more to love than I was experiencing. This became even more evident when I read the instruction of John as he said, "Little children, let us stop just saying we love people; let us really love them, and show it by our actions." This brought many questions to my mind. Do I love people as I should? Was what I called love really love or was I just saying, "I love people." If it was not love, how could I find a complete love? Too often, my actions did not reflect a spirit of love.

As I studied the various aspects of love in the Bible, in books, and from other sources, I realized that love is not something that happens. It is a feeling which has to be learned. Just as a baby learns to trust and then to love its mother, just as young converts learn to trust and then to love Christ; so must we as individuals learn to trust and love each other.

"For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." This is the key. I realized that real love must find its foundation in Jesus Christ. Any other foundation can only result in a perverted love, one full of problems, disappointments, and disillusion. However, through Him we are able to love by faith. In spite of all outside influences, a love which is perpetuated by faith can remain strong. By faith we can ask Jesus to give us love for everyone — even those who cause problems.

I am far from an authority on love; I can only share with you that which I have learned through study and through a personal relationship with Christ. Each time I read from His word, the way becomes more evident. It is as though I am climbing a mountain which will never end. However, with each step higher, my vision, which scans the secrets of a true consummated love, becomes less impaired.

It would seem that a spirit of love should be a fruit in every Christian's life. I feel that is could be if the human factor were not involved. We have a tendency to be led away on tangents of self interest which are contrary to a real love. Going on these tangents is like throwing a rock into a still pond. The love is agitated much as the water is when a rock breaks the surface; but if we are sincere in seeking God's love, this true love will settle with greater magnitude.

As editor of the Trev-Echoes, a member of the student council, a student, and just Bill Gunno, my goal is that they will know I am a Christian by my love. Will you make this your goal?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I just returned from a Missions Conference in Olathe, Kansas, where we made beginning plans for an international missions organization for our campuses. As progress is made, I'll keep you posted. It's so great to realize our missions department is "with it", and they're "for us". Some of these leaders include: Franklin Cook, Tom Wilson, and Ray Hendrix.

I think we need to broaden our horizons and look at the world around us. We have much to share with others. We can't do it all, but we can do "our part".

Let us evaluate ourselves, realize our potential and become excited about the greatest Person ever... Jesus!!!

Rare Spirit Prevails

Since my arrival at TNC, I have felt a sense of unity and high spiritual commitment that I believe is rare on today's campuses. I therefore set out to discover the prevailing attitudes of some of the other students on campus with the question, "How high, in your estimation, is the level of spiritual emphasis and commitment at TNC this year, and will this level of commitment be perpetuated and accelerated throughout the year?"

After speaking with Dr. Dunning, I found his belief to be that the spiritual emphasis beginning this year is very high. He is impressed with the level of Christian commitment that he has seen manifested in the lives of the majority of students. He feels this level of spiritual commitment does not have to taper off as it tended to do in past years, but can be perpetuated, if students will but keep their priorities straight, and in so doing, increase their own personal commitments to Jesus Christ.

Freshman Jim Laing related that he senses a very strong spiritual atmosphere at Trevecca and pointed to the recent prayer meeting at College Hill as evidence. He believes how the level of Christian commitment is carried on throughout the year is pretty much up to the students. That is, if students will allow themselves to be filled with the Holy Spirit and to walk daily with God, then things cannot help but improve!

Sophomore Ron Black told me he felt that there was a great amount of anticipation on campus for a year stocked full with many spiritual victories and blessings. He said among the students there is a general attitude of wanting a great revival.

In agreement with the others, Professor Jerry Hull also senses a prevailing attitude of excitement and spiritual conviction that he has not been as evidently in the beginning of past years. He is looking forward to an even higher level of spiritual emphasis and commitment as the year unfolds, and as great things begin to happen.

From all reliable sources, it appears we can look forward to a glorious year filled with God's most abundant blessings, if we will but let His Holy Spirit lead and guide us each day as we all unite as one in Him, strive to glorify Jesus Christ, and let His light shine this year here in Nashville.

All Eyes on Jesus

I have never been more excited about being at Trevecca than this year. The reason is this: we have our eyes on Jesus, and we are open to His will. Many of us have allowed the Lord to open our eyes more in these past few months than ever before. We, the students, the faculty, and the administration, are all wanting His will.

Now comes the big question: When God shows us His will this year, what are we going to do? Of course, we all answer that we will do His all; but answering "yes" and doing His will are two different things. The answer without the action is empty.

This year at TNC, there are many different ways for you to reach out to others. We have a Christian Outreach Program, which will be expanded into many different fields: outreach to youngsters, teens, couples, families, and the elderly. We need to get involved in building God's kingdom. Let's get started right away! If His will for you does not lead you into our Outreach Program, do not let that stop you. Start your own!

Chaplain's Corner

The crudely lettered protest sign read, "Don't fold, staple, or mutilate. I'm a human being." That says it pretty well. Everyone wants to be more than a number. Computers do amazing and needed task but they can't love, communicate, pray, understand, listen praise or build faith.

"I want to be me," the song says. But doesn't everyone? We reason that it is time others recognize me as a person of ultimate worth. But why not start by personally appreciating the unique persons around us.

A blind man healed by Jesus was asked what he saw. He replied, "I see men as trees, walking." It is easy to see people as objects. Oh, not as trees but see them as wearing artificial labels or members of a certain group. The idea goes like this. He is a freshman. She is a cheerleader. What do you expect from a faculty member? That's an Administrator. Or, he's a "well-to-do", a preacher's kid or a psychology major.

When Jesus touched this blind man again he saw "every man clearly." (Mark 8:24) In the truly Christian sense, we are to see others clearly as individuals, significant to God and important to us.

One translation says the blind man was "...drinking in sights around him." The physical environment of our campus is greatly improved but that is not the best sight around us. The greatest sight is that of eager fellow Christians seeking to find and fulfill the will of God. The kaleidoscope interaction involves a questioning student and a Christian teacher; the college community at worship; or the "group prayer cells" in the dorms. It also includes students, faculty, and administrators planning and praying for a greater Trevecca. Better individuals are the reason this college exists.

Tommy, the eight year old president of a tree house club said, "Nobody is big and nobody is small in this club. Everybody is important."

Everybody is important at Trevecca. Let's make this the year of the person. I pledge my best to make it so. Will you join me?

AROUND AND ABOUT

Every year, many students come to Trevecca Nazarene College planning to go into full time Christian service. Unfortunately, these students sometimes get discouraged because they do not find all the opportunities to serve that they had hoped for. In answer to this problem, we are glad to announce the existence of a club that will provide many such opportunities by involving the TNC student in practical Christian service: The Christian Workers' Association.

This year the CWA will involve more people in more practical Christian work than any other club on campus. Every Sunday at 8:45 a.m. the CWA sends men to the Metro Workhouse, and the women to the Women's Jail. And at 2:15 p.m. on Sundays they send both men and women to the Juvenile Center and to Grace Rest Home. The CWA also holds services on a monthly basis at a variety of other places.

The Christian Workers' Association proudly invites any and all Christians to join them in this endeavor. For further information on service through the CWA, contact Hank Spaulding at extension 333.

The Women's Resident Association strives to promote unity among the women on campus and to make a definite contribution to the college. With these two goals in mind, they are planning a number of activities for the coming year.

A major project of the WRA this year is the Big-Little Sister program. Several social activities, are planned for the Big-Little Sisters.

Lynn Harrison, president of the WRA, is working for some all-school activities to be sponsored by the club. Some of these include a bicycle hike and TWIRP Week. We hope that everyone will cooperate in making the WRA a really effective organization on campus.

Due to the inadequate housing, Trevecca plans to build a ten-unit, two-bedroom apartment complex, completed by the middle of January. The complex, located in place of the wash house in the trailer park, will house six men in each apartment with every two students in a private room, two study areas, and one bath. Residents of McKay Hall will have first choice for the new dorm.

Freshman... make it happen! Summer's over, and everyone has come back to school in anticipation of a great year. The freshman class in particular seems to be filled with optimism. This is coupled with a feeling of independence, even though tight scheduling may mean less freedom. This attitude should be christened... the "Spirit of '76." Freshmen, this would give us something to live up to.

We should be able to look forward to a very rewarding year socially, academically, and spiritually, so let's get it all together, and really MAKE IT HAPPEN!

The Trev-Echoes staff would like to express a warm welcome to all students and faculty of the Trevecca Nazarene College campus. Our desire is that we may serve you with a publication that is welcomed in the hearts and minds of those who would see our institution grow. Your stories, testimonies, comments, and criticisms are welcomed and can be received in the Trev-Echoes office in the basement of McClurkan at the times posted on the door.

Remember, too, that your patronization of our advertisers helps us serve you better.

During the past five years under Dr. Mark R. Moore's administration, Trevecca has made many long-awaited achievements. The Physical Education Center and the Science Building have been completed, improvements in the quality of the faculty have been made, final accreditation has been attained, Trevecca has operated in the black for the past two years, and our debt has been cut in half.

Dr. Moore has three goals in mind for Trevecca. He hopes for improved student services, the extension of accreditation, and a 1974 enrollment of 900 students.

We, as students of Trevecca, should do everything in our power to bring about the realization of these goals.

ACTION POLL...

The Trev-Echoes is proud to present an exciting and informative new reader service, "the Action Poll." This issue's poll researched the dating and social life of TNC's most popular students. The following is a student rating on the "extra-curricular activities" of some of our more "active" friends.

Girls	Votes	Guys	Votes
Micky Patton	321	Mark Liner	389
Janet Hegelmeyer	197	Dave Taylor	132
Kathy Simmons	113	Dale Kendall	101
Diane Walls	71	Paul Gerard	93
Barbara Duke	69	Ken Latham	46

When does Mickey have time to study something other than boys? Have the two leaders met yet?

Mark has really been reeling them in, hook, liner, and sinker.

Ken is getting as good as his father in public relations.

For a Freshman, Paul is off to a fast start.

TECH AND ALGA REUNITED

The look of love in far away Ethiopia can only express the bond shared by our campus couple Alga and Tech. Moonlight and roses; how do I love thee, let me count the ways... the romance of a young couple expressed in words spoken not familiar to us, but their meaning infinitely the same. A beautiful young couple from Ethiopia, Alganesh Asmelash and Tech Woubneh. This love of never ending unity has now enriched TNC's campus.

Through God they communicated, and through love they have stayed together. Seven years ago they met in a manner known and understood by only those familiar with the Ethiopian culture. As time passed their love continued to grow but, as sometimes happens, good things must come to an end. No, not their love, but their physical nearness to each other came to an abrupt end. After many hours of prayer and thought, Tech decided to leave Ethiopia with the goal of coming to the United States for higher education.

The test of true love arrived. Not only did Tech and Alga separate then but for two almost unbearable, unending years. Heartbreak and loneliness described our couple best. Even through trial, their undying love lasted. Across the seas, mountains, and highways stretched a bond of love known to few before them. And now, after hours, days, and weeks of loneliness not known to many of us, they have now been reunited.

We at TNC wish to welcome Tech and Alga and hope their stay will be a fulfilling one. May our students comprehend the true meaning of love through Christ and visualize this in a beautiful couple. May God richly bless and strengthen their lives now at Trevecca and in the future.

HEY COACH, THIS ELMER'S GLUE REALLY WORKS.

TROJAN TALK

Basketball is a game of many strategies. Two teams can play "race horse ball" for a whole game, and total over 150 points, and then the team which employs an effective stall in the last few moments may win by a point.

Our Trojans really played "run and gun" ball last year, and ended up with a very impressive 19-9 record. In light, there is much losing, as anyone who plays any sport can tell you. Chet Foraker, last year's coach of our stupendous Trojans, retired after his first year with the team.

Although a good man has come and gone, the man for the job now is Coach Haynes, and we are sure he will carry on. A 1969 graduate of the University of Missouri, he went on to become an assistant coach at West Port High School. The following year, he coached in Mound City, Missouri, where his team finished with an 18-7 record and second in the state regional. Somehow that wasn't good enough for Coach Haynes, because the next season, his team finished with a 22-3 record, and won their state conference.

This season promises to be soul-stirring, with the Trojans first opponent being St. Aguias Junior College, whom I have heard by way of the grapevine, should give the Trojans a run for their money.

Life is controlled by our use of time. During this fall and winter quarter, time and willpower will be essential for our team to come out on top. Back to defend their Southern Christian Athletic Conference title, the Trojans have no pushovers on their schedule as they have had in the past three years. Facing them once again is their cross-town rival, Belmont College. The Nazarene tournament is on November 16, 17, and 18. They go against Mt. Vernon Nazarene on January 26 and 27, and Mid-America in Kansas, February 2 and 3. There will be trips to Montgomery, Alabama and Tuscalooska, Alabama to play two of our newest opponents, Huntingdon College, and all-black Stillman College. The Trojans returning lettermen, combined with some experienced transfers, hope to carry them through the rugged season.

HEY GIRLS!

Girls! Are you looking for some fun? Have you been trying to find a way to get some exercise? If so, you should try TNC's girls' Intramural Athletics. Last year the girls had lots of fun playing softball, volleyball and basketball as well as some individual sports. This year plans have been made to include more activities in hopes that all will participate.

Softball and volleyball will be starting within the next week, on alternate nights so that you can participate in both sports if you wish. During the winter, basketball will be played. At the end of the year all-stars will be selected from the three sports. Along with these major sports there will be ping pong, checkers and chess.

The Director of Girls Intramurals, Miss Lore, is planning to have a Gymnastic Club. Her hope is to have the girls work up a gymnastic performance for halftime at TNC's basketball games.

All girls are encouraged to turn out for the activities planned. This looks to be a year of fun, exercise and good Christian fellowship.
